FAQ

What is the typical profile of companies accepted into the program?

Typically, participants chosen for the Studio are early stage digital health companies with experienced founders. Seed—Series A companies with a product or product-ready prototype who are pilot ready or have early customer relationships are the best fit. Companies should be well-developed with a clearly articulated value proposition, but interested in learning and getting feedback from industry experts. You do not have to be fundraising to qualify for the program.

What is the financial requirement for companies to participate in the program?

Healthbox does not provide funding or require equity exchange as a condition to participate in the Studio. All companies are responsible for covering the costs of travel and lodging for the program dates.

What are participant expectations?

Two representatives from the founding and/or executive team are expected to participate. Representatives must be open to feedback and willing to participate in meaningful discussions. At least one representative is expected to attend each session, barring extenuating circumstances, with full engagement in Studio activities throughout the week. Additional team members are welcome.

What's in it for Healthbox?

The Healthbox Studio provides our team the opportunity to actively support entrepreneurial innovation and keeps our finger on the pulse of transformative new solutions in the market. Through engaging our network of industry leaders as speakers and mentors of the program we're building excitement around innovation within healthcare — which we believe is a win for everyone.

Will any formal relationship with Healthbox continue post-program?

Healthbox will debrief with each Studio company post-program to share guidance and feedback. Although there is no formal post-program relationship, Healthbox will continue to support the development of Studio companies after the program. It is our goal to cultivate relationships between Healthbox, our network, and Studio companies.

Who comprises the Healthbox network?

The Healthbox network is comprised of executive, innovation, and business development leaders from provider and payor organizations, as well as successful entrepreneurs, investors, and other industry partners. Many of these influencers contribute their industry expertise as speakers and mentors at the Studio program.
